Have you asked yourself these questions lately?

- Are children entitled to every new electronic game and gadget?
- Are children entitled to a car at age 16?
- Are children entitled to a college education?
- How can parents instill an ethic of work in their children?
- How do parents teach responsibility and accountability?
- How do you love and protect your children without spoiling them?
- How much is too much?

Jan Faull, M.Ed, a local child development and behavior specialist, will offer some answers to these burning questions. She has written several books, taught for BCC parent groups, Evergreen Hospital and Overlake Hospital. She has a weekly column in the Seattle Times and speaks nationally to parenting groups. Don't miss this opportunity to hear this local parenting expert give realistic advice that you can implement into your family routine.
